

Welding Equipment

Benefits:

- All Major Brands
- New Technology
- Technical Expertise
- Value Added Service

A One Source Vendor

Miller, Lincoln, Thermal Dynamics, Hobart, Koike... Just a few of the major brand names in welding and plasma cutting equipment that are available from TWSCO.

From the simplest AC “crackerbox” stick welder to the most advanced programmable robotic welder, TWSCO is the source for welding and cutting equipment.

Technology

Technological advances in today’s welding and cutting equipment can assist you in producing products and services in a more cost efficient manner. Multiple input power choices help reduce power costs while multi-process power sources eliminate the need for two or three separate pieces of equipment.

Expertise

Many brands and types of equipment are available and technology is advancing. These advancements require accurate information and the correct equipment for each application.

Our trained and knowledgeable sales staff has an average of 21 years experience in the welding industry. We help customers match the right equipment to the specific need, including equipment support and all accessories.

Value Added Supplier

Our pricing is competitive. However, we bring more than price and availability to the table. As a value added supplier, we can provide a complete package for your needs from the input power cable to the consumables. Further, we service what we sell and every machine that is sold, is sent through our service department to be tested before shipment to ensure it is performing according to the manufacturers’ specifications.

Manufacturers recognize our capability to serve our customers and endorse us as a preferred distributor through customer referrals.

TWSCO offers a large inventory of welding and cutting equipment and provides technical sales consultation during the selection process. Our “value added” service before, during, and after the sale, instills confidence in the equipment purchasing experience.
